

Struggle

Life is a struggle for completeness
it brings many things that we have not reckoned for.

The reason we are all here now is that we were not all there then.

Who will teach you all things
made manifest from every point of view?

Blind guides have sluggish hearts, dull ears, closed eyes,
they fail to comprehend in the darkness

allowing decisions to be governed by unknown powers that insinuate themselves into thoughts.

But watchful eyes turn darkness into motion imaged
at light speed and so avoid the black holes.

Open ears heal the spirit of deafness,
the whisper telling which way we are to turn.

Understanding hearts distill love from hate bringing remnants of much-needed peace to a violent world.

All from the least to the greatest have the innermost Teacher
Saving us from those who barely see, hardly hear, and rarely understand.

Our inward Light emanates from the New Covenant and it often teaches everything in deep darkness.

Act as a conveyor of gifts, speak only the truth,
seek only that which teaches things rightly.

Remove the many unneeded boundaries
And seek new ways to build bridges.